

Graft Rumors Are Being Looked Into

Business Asked Lee Cowart "How Many Six Shooters He Had With Him."—Evidence Tied to Show That Applicants Were Not Told Gun Stock Was Necessary.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 19.—The investigation into graft charges in connection with the Alabama Oil and Gas Company will be continued Friday morning. C. W. Austin, editor of the Post-Herald, a weekly paper of Birmingham, said he did not know anything in connection with the charges, but furnished some names of men who had talked about the matter. He turned in a copy of his paper, which published a letter from Dr. R. T. Fields about the sale of stock in the Alabama Company.

Lee Cowart was also a witness in this case, but he could not tell of anything as to the Alabama Oil and Gas Company stock selling matter. Before the witness left the stand, Bowman asked a question which was declared not relevant. It was "How many six shooters have you got in your pockets?"

Room is Crowded.

Room 229 in the Morris Hotel was crowded to the very doors at 10 o'clock this morning when the gubernatorial investigation into reports scattered throughout Jefferson county and in the State to the effect that four state officials, Leon McCord of the State Railroad Commission, P. O. Bowman, Jefferson County Tax Commissioner; James K. Oakley, President of the State Convict Board, and Dr. T. E. Fields, of Enley, physician to the state convicts, were interested in the Alabama Oil and Gas Company, and that stock in that company was sold to men who were after licenses for saloons in Jefferson county and that the stock was sold with or under an impression that there would be recommendation for a license.

Attorneys for the accused began preliminaries by objecting to the investigation being held in such a small room and asked that adjournment be taken to the city hall, where a large chamber was at the disposal of Mr. R. B. Evans, of Gretnboro, the governor's legal adviser, and Mr. R. C. Brickett, the attorney general of the state, who are making the investigation.

Public Hearing

The governor's representative expressed the belief that the fact that representatives of the press being allowed to remain in the room and that others interested directly, indirectly or just looking on, could be in the room, that this could be considered a public hearing.

It was requested that the witnesses be sworn before. Jack Stallings, the official stenographer, who is a notary public.

V. L. Metts, of Wylan, who, with his brother, secured a saloon license, was the first witness examined. He said that he was told by Dr. Fields that some gentlemen wanted to see him in a room at the Morris hotel to talk to him in reference to stock in an oil and gas company; that it was a good proposition, but it was not necessary to purchase the stock if he did not want to. Metts came to Birmingham and had the proposition placed before him.

Mention of Commission

He said there was some mention of the excise commission of Jefferson county. He did not buy the stock.

J. H. Higgins, who is in the saloon business at Enley, told of going to the Morris hotel after the local option election and of giving his notes for some of the stock. He did not connect anyone with the "influence in getting a license" in his purchase of stock.

Tommy Neel, of Enley, T. M. Carter of Enley, Smith Bridge, of Bessemer, and several others were called in turn before the investigation. It was brought out that the plans of the Alabama Oil and Gas Company was to raise a certain amount of money on the stock issue to meet a $50,000 or $100,000 donation by the citizens of Tuscaloosa looking to the construction of a pipe line from the Fayette gas fields to Tuscaloosa. The stock was offered, to a great extent, to the men who were seeking license to do business in the liquor line and many gave their notes for the stock.

Reason of Inquiry

It was stated at the outset by Mr. Evans that the result of the investigation would only be to report to

AVIATOR ELY KILLED AT MACON FAIR BY ICE AND SNOW

FAILS TO RISE FROM HIS SEAT—NATIONAL DIP AND LEAPS FROM HIS SEAT.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 19.—Eugene Ely, the well known aviator, was fatally injured at the state fair grounds this afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock when his machine failed to rise from a sensational dip and plunged with him fifty feet to the ground. He fell in the presence of nearly eight thousand people, to the middle of the inclosure of the mill track, after almost clearing the machine by a desperate leap, when he realized his peril. His body was broken in a score of places and he died eleven minutes later, regaining consciousness just before the end, long enough to mutter: "I lost control—I know I am going to die." Ely made a remarkable fight this morning, shortly before noon, ascending the atmosphere to an altitude of 3,100 feet. At 2:45 o'clock he began his second flight of the day rising gracefully from the track inclosure, which he cleared in a few minutes, traveling at about thirty miles an hour. As he was completing the circle he made one of his famous dips, seemingly to startle the thousands beneath him who were watching with rapturing eyes.

Machine Falls to Rise.

The birdlike machine shot down with tremendous velocity and the crowd applauded, thinking the aviator would rise, as he had done many times before in the manner of a bird. Many persons saw him lose his grip on the lever, and the machine continued its downward plunge to the earth, and he attempted to rise from his seat. In fact he released the lever altogether and half jumped half fell to the ground. It was demolished bits of wood and metal flying hundreds of feet, so great was the compact, while Ely struck with terrific force.

Scenes rushed across the track to where he lay, a bloody, inert mass. He was tenderly removed from beneath the wreckage and carried to the shade of his hangar. Runners searched the grounds for a physician while others telephoned for ambulances. The crowd surged about the hangar, but were kept in order by the policemen who had gathered. In the meantime everything possible was done for the injured man, but he died shortly after reaching the hospital.

Ely left his wife in New York two weeks ago to come to Macon to give a series of flights to the Georgia State Fair in his Curtiss biplane. En route he stopped at Havre, Montana, to visit his relatives. He had been giving spectacular aerial demonstrations here for eight days, going up on one occasion in a rain storm. Today he offered to make a flight by night, painting his craft with phosphorus, "so as to startle the natives," he told the fair directors. The offer was declined for the reason that he wanted a thousand dollars and the association thought the sum too large and the performance unnecessary.

We want about a 12-year-old boy at this office who isn't street-smart.

The Eagle.

The governor whether or not there was any basis for the many reports that were going the rounds in the county as to the sale of stock being conditioned with the license or recommendation for license to do the liquor business in Jefferson county. Several of the witnesses did not know James Oakley and said they had not seen him at the meeting in the Morris hotel when the plans of the stock arrangements were set forth. Several of them did not know Leon McCord and one of them picked out Walter Slater, attorney for Mr. McCord.

Dr. Fields, through questions to the witnesses showed that it almost every instance when the stock proposition was presented to the men they were told to use their own judgments as to buying stock.

SCORES OF MINE WORKERS IN BUTTE CHEER HIM ON ARRIVAL

Butte, Mont., Oct. 19.—President Taft came into Montana today from the south more than an hour behind schedule. In place of the temperature of 85 degrees that he encountered in Los Angeles, Mr. Taft found snow and frozen streams today. From Butte the president travels eastward to Billings. Cheers from scores of mine workers on the "richest hill on earth" welcomed President Taft's special as it pulled into Butte this morning. President Taft was the guest of the Butte News Writers' Union, the first organization to extend an invitation to him when it was announced he contemplated a Western trip.

Many Greet President

At the breakfast at the Silver Bow Club, 300 representative men from throughout the state greeted him. Afterward the president made an address to which he spoke of the agricultural possibilities of the state. Following this he was presented with an oil painting by Charles Russell, the cowboy artist, representing a cowboy roping a grizzly bear.

His principal address was made in the open air. He spoke on treaties and the address differed in no essential particular from others given by him on this trip on the same subject.

GOT THE "DAY LAUNDRY"

Ellis Baker, the laundry man, says the traveling man who complained about not having a laundry here that took up and returned laundry the same day was located; or he had a pipe dream. He says his laundry has been doing that kind of quick laundry work for seven years for the accommodation of the traveling men.

It is gratifying to know we can not be accused here of being behind other cities in the way of service.

MARY'S HAIR IS GRAY

From the New York Press. Mrs. Antonio de Navarro, who was Mary Anderson, loved by the play-going public as "Our Mary," arrived yesterday in the White. She came to New York to make Robert Hichens, the author of "The Garden of Allah," in the production of the dramatized book. She suggested that the novel be put in stage form and assisted Hichens in adapting it.

The hair of Mrs. de Navarro, that once was a poet's inspiration, now is taking on a tinge of gray, but there are few other signs to denote the age of 52. She seems as buoyant and cheerful as in the days when she was giving the greatest interpretations of Shakespearean roles that not yet have been forgotten. It was commented in her hearing that it has been a long time since New Yorkers have seen her.

"Ah, yes," she replied, "perhaps that is so, but one does not notice the flight of years when one is happy. The years flee quickly then."

"Our Mary" now is the mother of three children, two girls whom she left in the care of their grandmother, and a boy, Joan, 12 years old, who is beginning his education in England.

Taammell Giver His View of Postal Change

RODGERS FLIES 100 MILES IN 35 MINUTES

Waco, Texas, Oct. 19.—"Cal" E. Rodgers, the aviator en route from the Atlantic to the Pacific, flew from Dallas to Waco today, 100 miles, in ninety-five minutes, landing at Gurley Park at 4 o'clock this afternoon. His only stop was at Hillsboro, thirty-four miles north of Waco, where he replenished his gasoline supply.

Before leaving Rodgers circled a downtown office building twice, made a perilous dip and flew around the city, descending in his flight to just above the house tops.

He will resume his journey tomorrow morning, with Austin, 108 miles distant, as the next stopping point.

A dinner was arranged at a local hotel tonight in the aviator's honor.

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 19.—Aviator C. P. Rodgers, flying about 1,000 feet high, left Dallas shortly after 2 o'clock, having circled above the fair grounds for some time. He left the grounds at 1:50 p. m., announcing that he would try to spend the night in Austin, 229 miles from here.

Sightseers at the state fair here today in crowding about the plane of C. P. Rodgers, damaged the right plane.

To make repairs, Rodgers was compelled to postpone his start for San Antonio from noon to 2 p. m.

Rodgers today told a story about an encounter yesterday with a rattle. While flying about 2,000 feet high, between Fort Worth and Dallas, the bird rose far below him, winging upward directly at the approaching machine. Rodgers said he was not well versed in the way of eagles, but that this specimen seemed to him to be poraled and determined to discover what sort of antagonist was approaching.

Nearing the plane, and almost directly in front of it, the bird appeared to take fright at the propeller and swooped downward and out of sight.

MITCHELL ORCHESTRA WILL FURNISH MUSIC

On account of the protracted services being held at the LaFayette Avenue Methodist church, the popular Mitchell orchestra, who play there at the regular services, will give special selections Sunday morning and night.

Horses and mules, and afternoon prices sell for about as much as they did before the road got full of automobiles you probably have noticed.

SAYS DROPPING OF MAIL CLERK WILL NOT AFFECT DOTMAN OR WORK HANDS.

In regard to the dropping of the four mail clerks on the Montgomery to Hainbridge run on the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad which took place Wednesday Postmaster Byron Trammell of this city, in an effort to enlighten the Dothan people and others along the line stated today that the change would not effect the mail service of Dothan nor would it work a hardship on any of the clerks.

Postmaster Gives His Opinion.

In an interview today, Mr. Trammell stated:

"In connection with your article in yesterday's paper with reference to change in railway mail service on the Atlantic Coast Line, the proposed change will not effect the service to and from Dothan in the least. It is true heretofore that from Montgomery to Jump two clerks have been assigned to a car, and under the change there will still be two clerks on east bound trains from Montgomery to Troy, and Hainbridge to Jump, west bound trains from Jump to Hainbridge, and Troy to Montgomery. The helpers assigned to each end of this line is sufficient to enable the clerk in charge to properly work up all through mail, only local mail between Troy and Hainbridge each way will have to be handled by one clerk. The department is not well versed in the amount of mail matter handled on this line to make any change that would be detrimental to the service or work a hardship on the postal clerks."

He also stated further that each clerk would still have a helper for the through mail and that the clerk in charge is fully capable of working the local matter. The helper boards the west bound train at Troy and assists the clerk in working the mail through mail until after the terminal at Montgomery is reached. This method is also used on the east bound trains at the other end of the line.

THINK NOTHING ABOUT IT

Automobile Parties Going to Montgomery Every Afternoon. Fair Route.

A party left this afternoon for Montgomery by automobile, comprising of A. Y. Malins and two little boys, J. L. Acree, J. B. Reeves and J. N. Street. They will remain up there to see the finish of the fair.

Not alone do they complete the prettiness of baby, but they lend feminine grace and daintiness to mother and sister as well; their utility on women's wearing apparel is almost without end. We have them in all different patterns of solid gold, gold filled and rolled plate in all the different finishes and in a wide range of prices.

Friday, October 10, 1914

There is no telling just when Gov. Hoke Smith, of Georgia, will resign, but his friends claim that he will resign the fifteenth of next month. His enemies doubt it.

Only six men have announced as candidates for treasurer of Dale county, and there seems plenty of time yet to get up a right respectable race before the primaries are called.

We hadn't figured on the thing like Our Mountain Home has. It remarks that "twenty bales of cotton will buy an automobile." According to that, it would take a good many subscriptions to make a newspaper man able to buy one.

We thought we detected a note of alarm in the Birmingham News, about the attitude toward Governor O'Neal. The News does well to come out and speak its mind now, but it should have looked farther ahead at a time when it would have done good.

Georgia is bragging about a champion cotton picker who picked over five hundred pounds on one day. That is just a little over half as much as a young man picked who lives near Headland. He got a good deal more than seven hundred pounds, and we don't know just how many rotten and water melons he busted over a stump and ate during the day.

If you get a case of the grouch take a ride over this town and this county and see what other people are doing. If you are in trouble you may find some in more than you are. The chances are though, that the ride will do you good and serve to make you forget your town trouble, for you will find people at work. Work, you know, is one of the best grouch busters known to science.

The state of Alabama has had more advertising during the last few months than most any other state through its public men. Oscar Underwood has done much to point the finger of the public in Alabama, and O'Neal has been in the limelight a time or two, and since the death of Justice Harlan, Henry Clayton has been prominently mentioned as a probable successor.

The Birmingham News sounds a distress signal and prepares to leave the sinking ship. You might read what it says in relation of the extravagance of the O'Neal administration and not detect that much, but it is there. It doesn't say so in so many words, but you can see that it wishes we had another election before the four-year term of the present governor expires.

The trade-at-home spirit is pretty broad in this town. Few people go out of town, or send, for articles they can get at home. It is done every little while by the man, who likes to show something to his friends with the remark that he bought it while in such and such a city. That is something to be ashamed of, and many of them have stopped it for the very good reason they can get better bargains at home.

The Ozark Star this week is calling attention of the officers of Dale to the report that whiskey is being sold at Grimes. Grimes is located just over the Houston line, and for some time it has been reported that whiskey was being sold there to do than thrifless. Neighbors along the road have been complaining at the conduct of drunks passing to and from Grimes, and as court is soon to meet in Dothan, it is possible that this place of the business will be looked into. It is up to Dale to keep an eye on her borders.

When any public man, or private citizen either, gathers about him a lot of people who are considered friends, there is an awful responsibility on the man. He must, in a manner, be responsible for his friends. It more than likely that Gov. O'Neal has some friends that he is tiring of. He would like to give the misdeeds, but he knows of no way of doing it, unless they fall out and fight among themselves. Every since his election, the people of Alabama have sympathized with the governor for his misfortune of gathering in a certain class of people during the campaign that will give him trouble. He will never be a free man till something happens to some of his friends.

THE SPIDER.
If a spider is forced to jump out in space, he makes fast his rope, by spinning a web, which holds him up before it is too late. Nature prepared him for such emergencies, but presumed that man would be able to get along without taking such chances.
Man got to monkeying with things in such a way till he is taking as much risk as the spider. He cannot spin a web when he is in a tight place, either, for he hasn't anything to make it fast to. If he ever needed it, it would be in time of an airplane accident, and right at that time he could find nothing to make fast to. He don't start his program much, either, by spreading out like a flying squirrel.

SCIENTIFIC ROAD BUILDING.
There is cause for state-wide satisfaction over the perfected plans of the University of Georgia to establish a course in scientific road building.
Within recent years there has been a wonderful awakening to the importance of good highways. Scores and hundreds of our countrymen have joined in the campaign of progress, so that there is now scarcely a community from the mountains to the sea where the people are not interested in this movement.
Many counties have issued bonds for the improvement of their roads. Some have invested in modern road building machinery on an extensive scale. District organizations have been formed to give impetus and direction in particular undertakings. Indeed, there is no lack of money and labor and enthusiasm.

But these three factors alone, important as they are, will not produce thoroughly adequate and lasting results. They must be guided in their activity by up-to-date and accurate methods in science and art of road construction.

That is just the need the universally purposes to supply through the course it is to institute in connection with its department of civil engineering.

There will be short-term classes, open free of charge, to the county officials who are engaged in road or highway work. They will be enabled to learn the basic principles as well as the practical details by which the good roads are built. The adoption of methods to solve the choice of machinery, the building of bridges, the problems of grading, and maintenance—all these and scores of other valuable lessons will be taught.

In brief, the new department will place itself squarely behind the highway work of the entire state and thereby it will render the people a great and far-reaching service.—Atlanta Journal

DANIEL WALSH.
Among the many kinds and classes of people who populate this vale of variety will be found some, no doubt, who will regard the parole of Daniel Walsh of Chicago, as an evidence that man of money can do. It is the law with considerable impunity, and that justice was thwarted when the old financier tottered from the prison gate. But the people of that kind are few. People frequently say that respect for the age is wanting, but probably they have just said that, and we doubt its truth. Elijah may have voiced those sentiments before the bells rang out of the woods to breakfast on the young hoodlums of his time, but the chances are it wasn't true then, nor isn't it now. So most people are pleased that an aged man, who has been sufficiently, if not excessively punished, can go home to spend his last days in more comfort than is likely to be found about the best regulated penitentiaries.
Besides Walsh's offense was easy to forgive, for, while he technically violated the national banking laws, no doubt, he did not have a wisp of suffering and impoverishment as a result. The depositors were paid, and stockholders will be. The very fact that he was a big man who had made great wealth, doubtless encouraged the government to make an example of him, and such an example may have been for the best, even if it were not entirely just. But, whatever his wrong he had paid for it in suffering before the prison doors closed behind him, and to have kept him there longer would have done society or government no good. His parole won't hurt anyone nor encourage other bankers in crooked dealing, and it will be a big help to Walsh, at a time when a man needs help.

It is encouraging, too, to note, as we did in the beginning, that there is no great storm of protest against the parole, that people who first thought the aged are neglected more in this day than in others should cancel their bets. Banker Walsh was paid the price, and it may have been too high, but he is entitled to what he can get of the little that remains of his life, and it takes a mean man to begrudge it to him, even if he does happen to have enough money to pay for it.—Atchison Globe

VACANCY ON SUPREME BENCH.
(Congressman Henry D. Clayton of Alabama would make an excellent associate justice of the United States supreme court. In the form of an interview in another column former Congressman Sidney J. Bowie discusses Colonel Clayton's fitness for the vacancy on the supreme bench caused by the death of Mr. Justices Harlan, says the Age-Herald.)
Few men in the state are so widely known personally as the congressman who represents the Third District, and everybody knows his splendid public record and would rejoice to see President Taft honor him. As Mr. Bowie points out, Alabama is rich in material for the supreme bench and the president would make no mistake if he appointed any of a long list of very able lawyers, but Colonel Clayton is chairman of the judicial committee of the House of Representatives and as such he has become notably distinguished. The president in selecting men for life appointment to the highest judicial office in this country naturally looks for those who are already known to the public, and known, too, because of some signal service.

Colonel Clayton is a great lawyer and a man of large views. He was United States district attorney four years before being elected to Congress. The Democrats have only three members of the supreme court out of nine and as Mr. Harlan says, they should at least have four. Colonel Clayton comes of a strong strain. His father was one of Alabama's powerful men, was a major general in the Confederate army and was a very able jurist, but the son would make it is thought, even in added judge. Certain it is that he is exceptionally well equipped for the supreme bench.

President Taft would be very centrally applauded if he appointed Henry D. Clayton associate justice.

GOVERNOR O'NEAL'S GREAT RESPONSIBILITY.
Birmingham News
There lies today in this city a great investigation ordered by Governor O'Neal into the allegations as to the sale of gas and oil stock by Messrs. P. G. Bowman, D. T. Fields, Leon McCord and J. G. Oakley, in persons in this county intending to apply for liquor licenses. These are all officials of the state, the governor's political friends of long standing, and two of them his appointees.

The investigation is to be conducted by the Governor's personal legal adviser, Hon. R. B. Evans, of Greensboro assisted by Hon. R. C. Brinkley, attorney general of the state. It is an irregular proceeding without warrant in law, and necessarily without legal effect. It is a question whether any criminal statute of the state has been violated, even if many of the alleged rumors be proven.

But the proceeding necessarily carries with it great moral weight. When the governor or of the state is so impressed with gossip and rumors, current for some weeks in this community as to give the matter his personal attention by a visit here and to follow that visit by multiplying a formal investigation. It is clear that the chief executive is apprehensive that the honor and success of his administration are at stake. His purpose is certainly commendable, no matter how much difference of opinion there may exist as to the efficacy of the method he has chosen to get at the facts.
In commenting last week upon the order for this investigation the News pointed out the lack of power on the part of the investigator, and of the possibility that witnesses might not appear voluntarily, or of their failing to answer all questions. Only the hearty co-operation of the official under investigation, which they have promised, and the supposed earnestness of all the rumored sufferers by the deals, in coming forward and telling all they have been reported to know, can make this moral procedure of any effect. There is the possibility of the undertaking appearing to be a farce, and of the public believing after it is over that it was a white-wash.

Governor O'Neal, in justice to himself and to the majority of honest citizens who supported him, must take every precaution to prevent any such possible verdict upon his undertaking. If he is convinced that any one, or all, of these members of his official and political household, have played him false, or compromised the state's good name, he should not rest content until all the facts are developed, without fear or favor.

In this connection one of the rules of the investigation announced yesterday caused some unfavorable comment by keen observers, viz., the second:
"That the investigation will be confined to the issue made by the governor to the officials implicated in the charges and that the investigation will hinge upon whether or not these officials improperly sought to influence applicants or prospective applicants for the license in Jefferson county to purchase stock in the Alabama Oil and Gas Company."

The rumors about the streets here have included allegations of improper transactions, in the matter of influence by others than the four officials consenting to the inquiry, and the gossip has also included other operations than the bruttled sale of oil and gas stock. The gossip is also current that Governor O'Neal has in his possession affidavits, or statements, "as to these matters. There may, or may not, be ground for any of these rumors, but if the investigation is to be one of moral force to get at the truth of gossip or to silence it and if all persons are to be given an opportunity to testify, why should there be any restriction, upon the scope of the inquiry?" Furthermore, if it should develop that other officials than the four consenting to the inquiry, are involved, why should not the inquiry be extended to them?

The News has a sort of intuition about a conviction that his investigation is a critical period in Governor O'Neal's administration. Its effects are going to be far-reaching. The impression it makes on the state will not be a temporary one. The abiding result will be either to establish him to the opinion of a man political opponents, as well as political friends, as a capable, courageous and determined executive or else to develop the opposite judgment. As a supporter and constant friend of Governor O'Neal, the News cannot minimize this situation, nor would it for a moment magnify it.

This paper has no sort of interest in this whole matter, save the good name of Governor O'Neal's administration and the honor of the state of Alabama. It has no enemies to punish, no friends to protect. The truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, is all that any friend of Governor O'Neal desires, that any patriotic citizen wishes. If there is no fire beneath all this smoke, if all this gossip is a pack of lies, let the fact be demonstrated beyond cavil. If, on the contrary, there is any truth behind any of this gossip if any person or persons, have done wrong, now is the time and this is the place to ventilate all the fire.

The News, in common with all of Governor O'Neal's friends and all patriotic citizens expects him to demonstrate anew the very strong qualities his close friends have seen so many evidences of his possessing, viz., intellect and courage. He has devoted this inquiry, he is bound if he alone will experience its greatest effects. Therefore to use to vernacular he should not be good, he must convince the whole state, not merely Birmingham that he has gone to the bottom of all this alleged scandal.

A BASEBALL BARGAIN
Ed A. Goewey in Leslie's.
Did anyone ever tell you what Coa-ble Black paid for that magnificent infield of the Athletics—the one that did so much toward winning the world's championship, for that club?
Of course not! Well, it actually cost the clever manager of the Philadelphia team just $10.55. I thought you'd be surprised particularly when you recollect that such a fabulous sum as $27,500 was paid for O'Toole by Pittsburg and the Giants willingly gave up $11,000 for Marquard.
Well, this is how it came about. Condle is recognized as one of the shrewdest traders in the whole baseball business and if he ever went in the business of swapping horses, he'd have David Harum yelling for help.
He is an economist wherever it is possible, and it was possible when he secured shortstop Harry, Second Baseman Collins and Third Baseman Baker. Eddie Collins was in New York, Harry was at Holy Cross and Baker was fooling around in Reading, Pa. Mack captured this trio of baseball stars for the price of their railroad fares, and the three tickets totalled just exactly $10.55. He had Dixie for first when he made the deal. It is a feat that will never be duplicated.

From the New York Sun
When the occupant of a room in when the room clerk at the Gotham who happened to be the highest in authority at that hour started up stairs to rectify the what was coming he was prepared for the worst.

Instead the man who had telephoned greeted him with a smile.
"Say, I remarked I expected to get my roll today, but I hardly expected to find a lot of money in my floor. Look at it!"
The clerk was faced with a five and small bills. The clerk counted the money and found there was $95 of it. The only clerk he had as to the owner was a little boy. Next morning bright and early one of the chambermaids reported that she had lost her roll, which she had been in the habit of carrying in a little bag in her stocking, and as she handed the sum correctly she received the money that had been found the night before.

SATSUMA ORANGES

Something of Their Adaptability to This Section of Alabama Few People Know They Will Grow Here O. F. Williams Planting 1,000 Trees

Few people in this section of Alabama know that the satsuma orange will grow here as well as they will anywhere else, but some are finding it out. Mr. O. F. Williams, who has had some experience in the fruit business, has bought 1,000 trees and has already put out 100 on his farm just north of town.

Prof. P. F. Williams, professor of horticulture of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, has issued an interesting little booklet, which is given in part, below.

The satsuma orange is not an experiment. On the Gulf Coast of Texas, and in South Alabama much of the fruit has been produced. It is the hardiest orange known small in size, and in shape and appearance something like the orange which is known as a tangerine. It is adapted to cultivation in the counties of Mobile and Baldwin.

Professor Williams is optimistic in regard to the future of the satsuma orange in South Alabama. He claims the possibilities that the cultivation of this hardy fruit hold out to South Alabama men. He has studied the cultivation of satsumas for several seasons and the result of his investigations are set forth in a comprehensive booklet. He says:

Oranges Here to Stay

There is evidence on every hand that the orange business is coming to stay in Alabama and the writer is inclined to say that the writer is inclined to say that the orange business is coming to stay in Alabama and the writer is inclined to say that the orange business is coming to stay in Alabama.

There are several leading satsuma orange orchards in Baldwin and Mobile counties and one of the best is owned by Mr. O. F. Williams. He has been growing satsumas for several years and has been successful in his efforts. He has been growing satsumas for several years and has been successful in his efforts. He has been growing satsumas for several years and has been successful in his efforts.

History of Satsuma
Giving the history of the satsumas

Professor Williams tells that it belongs to the Mandarin group of oranges and undoubtedly originated in China. About three centuries ago the satsuma was introduced into Japan and it is from Japan that China is getting its supply. Some of the Japanese satsumas were introduced into the United States in 1876 by Dr. George Hall and in 1885 by Mr. Safford.

Trees in Testimony

Satsuma trees, says the bulletin, should be planted on citrus trifoliate roots. These are conceded to be the hardest roots known, and adapt themselves to a wide variation of soils. It is deciduous and is the only instance found of the kind among citrus fruits grown on other roots. The satsuma does not attain such excellent flavor and the trees on other stocks are usually either very vigorous or poor growers.

The best trees to plant are those with a one or two year top on the or four year old roots.

Directions for budding, planting, pruning, cultivation and protection against cold are given in the bulletin.

The earlier the period of ripening of the satsuma the more important from a commercial standpoint is that they there is practically no competition from other California or Florida oranges. Says the bulletin, where the satsuma is known everywhere with its competition there would hardly be a chance of crowding out the orange growing on a good bearing tree. It is just as well to the Florida and California oranges.

The satsuma is a hardy fruit which yields or pounds to yield higher net returns to the grower than the satsuma orange. There are several leading satsuma orange orchards in Baldwin and Mobile counties and one of the best is owned by Mr. O. F. Williams.

Could keep a Secret

A New York traveling man was sent to make a business call in Richmond Va. The day was sticky hot, says the Richmond Times-Star. At last he arrived in Richmond brushed through dust off his face to make sure the right man was getting off and he told one of the little fellows, looks that is common at Richmond. He went to a haberdashery and the traveling man, surveying the colored man with disfavor, said the negro girl dup.

The old horse started off at a trot and the negro girl for trot. The driver seemed to be thinking deeply. By and by he pulled the horse to a stop and turned backward to his fare. "Some one said 'he said' but wheel did you all want to go?"

Drive me to a haberdashery, said the traveling man

THERE'S as much difference in shoes as in anything else. Looks count for something; so do good workmanship and good materials

You're always the judge of the shoes you buy; you know better after they are worn out than when you buy as to whether they're good shoes—unless you buy Selz shoes.

When you buy a pair of shoes bearing the name Selz you get a guarantee of your satisfaction—that's what you want, satisfaction; and if you want to know WHEN YOU BUY, buy Selz shoes. Then be the judge.

The secret of the guarantee is that the shoe don't need it. The maker couldn't guarantee the wearer's satisfaction if they did.

We sell Selz shoes, because among other things the maker guarantees us satisfied customers, that ought to be one reason for your wearing Selz shoes. Other reasons are that you'll find the latest models in this line and that they are better-than-usual fitters. They are made on scientifically designed models; the shape of your foot is the primary feature of every Selz shoe store.

Cottolene

A Rational National Shortening

The woods are full of imitations of Cottolene—because Cottolene has made a pronounced success as "the perfect shortening." These imitations are of inferior quality, are packed in tins with ordinary removable covers, and depend largely upon substitution methods for their sale.

When you ask for Cottolene be sure you get Cottolene. There's only one Cottolene—packed in patent air-tight tin pails, with our trademark on the face of the pail.

It pays to pay a little more for Cottolene because of its superior quality and the fact that, being richer, it will go one-third farther than lard or any of its imitations. Its use means economy in the end.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE STATE

Chicago Tribune.
By a small majority the men of California have given the women what they refused them a few years ago—the ballot. It seems to have been largely a case of country against city. San Francisco gave a heavy majority against equal suffrage, but the country saved the day. This does not go to show that city people are more conservative than those in the country, but that local political influences were arrayed against an extension of the suffrage, since they could not be certain what the consequences would be.
The action of California will do more to help on the equal suffrage movement than that of any of the states which have preceded it. It is the deliberate verdict of a commonwealth where the average of intelligence and good citizenship is high. California is fortunate in that it has a large number of small and prosperous land owners. They are men of education, drawn to California by its climate and its opportunities from New England and the middle states. They are men with families, and it is from their knowledge of the women of the households that they have reached the conclusion that women can be trusted with the ballot.
California is by far the most populous of the six equal suffrage states. We shall have a better opportunity now to see to what extent women will use the ballot and what they will make of it.

A Little Snow Every Summer

When little Tommy Snow went to school the other morning, his face paled and he rushed up to teacher to tell her that another new baby had arrived at home, says the Brook-lyng Eagle.

A detailed black and white illustration of a steam-powered traction engine. The engine features a large, horizontal boiler mounted on two large, spoked wheels. A tall, cylindrical smokestack rises from the front of the boiler. A large, dark, rectangular structure, possibly a water tank or a large wheel, is positioned behind the boiler. The engine is shown from a side profile, facing right. The illustration is framed by a decorative border consisting of a series of small, repeating circular patterns.

Women's Department Pensacola Interstate Fair

The women's building is one of the largest structures in the grounds of the Interstate Fair and no department commands more interest than this.

Realizing that home building is a vital factor in the development of the resources of the country and that it is the responsibility of the fair association to the fair association has always devoted much attention to women's work. Several large and numerous to mention are offered at the fair of the week of November 6 and 7 of domestic exhibits.

home cooking, home-made jellies and preserves, machine and hand sewing, crochets, lace and drawn work, general fancy work, flowers, children's articles, blind people's work and the best specimens of art in oil, water, pastel, pen and ink and the best specimens of kodak views. The thousands of exhibits in this department arranged attractively in glass show cases and made more attractive by the gentle artful touches known only to woman form one of the most valuable and important parts of the big agricultural exposition.

OUR DELEGATES

The Alabama delegation to the National Convention of the Interstate Fair Association is composed of the following:

A movement is under way to get in several more of the state to get into the Convention. R. P. Hobson is running for delegate from the state at large. Says the Birmingham Ledger: "It is the hope of the city of Dothan that the Captain Hobson will enter the race. It is said that Captain Hobson has designs on the office of delegate from the state at large."

most interesting events ever held in Dothan as they are the representatives of the two sister states. The result of the race would be a lot of strong feeling between the people of the two states. The Alabama delegation is composed of the following: R. P. Hobson, J. C. Cover, and J. C. Cover. There is no doubt that the Alabama delegation will be a strong one in the race and be a credit to the state. The Alabama delegation is composed of the following: R. P. Hobson, J. C. Cover, and J. C. ### RENTAL MEETINGS GROW IN INTEREST

The revival at Lafayette Avenue Methodist church continues to grow in interest. Rev. A. J. Sellers is a teacher as well as a speaker. He is regarded by the preachers as being the best Bible student in the Alabama conference. His sermons are drawing large congregations. The congregations yesterday were the best work day congregations that have assembled. Last night the auditorium was about full. A large crowd is expected tonight. A large crowd will be made for all who come. Services at 2:30 in the afternoon and 7:15 at night.

THRIFT TO EMPLOYEES

Washington, Oct. 19.—Tribute to Government employees is written in the annual report of Paymaster General Whipple of the army who asks for an increase of salary and a system of retirement for the employee when he reaches the age of sixty.

Referring to the statistical increase of the cost of living of 50 per cent during the past fifteen years without a corresponding rise in pay, General Whipple says the increase is not asked as a reward for past services but as an actual necessity.

"It is apparent," says General Whipple, "that under these conditions the clerks with families to support and children to educate, have been forced to practice the utmost self-denial in order to make both ends meet and yet in the face of this there has been no diminution of their faithful application and attention to duty so far as my office is concerned."

The mobilization of the army last summer along the Mexican border says General Whipple demonstrated the ability to pay promptly considerable bodies of troops under conditions simulating actual war.

WHEELS THAT ARE LEFT BEHIND

are generally the cheap wheels. We mean by this wheels that are cheaply made not those that are sold at a reasonable price.

OUR BICYCLES are not expensive. A small sum will buy a good one. Our highest priced wheel and it is a high grade wheel too. Costs very little more than the cheap machines that haven't stability, reliability or durability.

The Bicycle Man
F. C. CLARK

In visiting the state fair the other day there was a boy who came in on an old fashioned bicycle. We noticed that the boy was riding a bicycle that was not recognized it and asked him no questions.

For them to decide. There will be many strong demonstrators who want to see the national convention and the boy will have a chance to pick out those they think should be elected.—Montgomery Journal

THIS STORE WONT GUARANTEE CALOMEL

But We Have a Liver Medicine that We Can Guarantee with Money. Back Offer

The next time you think you need a dose of calomel, don't take it. Even if you have taken it often before, this might be the very dose that would sicken you. Its use is sometimes followed by dangerous after-effects. If you are constipated or bilious or if your liver has gotten lazy or inactive two or three doses of Dodson's Liver Tonic, pleasant-tasted vegetable liquid, will make you feel like new.

We would not recommend Dodson's Liver Tonic in place of calomel if we were not willing to fully guarantee it. So anybody who buys a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic at Nix Drug Company's store and does not find it a perfect substitute for calomel may come into the store any day and get his or her money back. It has absolutely no bad after-effects and is harmless for children as well as grownups.

COME TO SOUTH MISSISSIPPI AND OWN YOUR OWN HOME.

Why pay high rental for land when you can purchase better land and pay for it in four years, paying the same amount as you are now paying for rent. We will sell you a farm on terms to suit yourself and will charge no interest on your time payments and we pay all the taxes until the land is paid for and you have your deed.

We have 100,000 acre in South Mississippi only 30 miles from the gulf coast with an altitude of more than 300 feet above the sea level, and none of it is further than five miles from the railroad.

Our large canning factories and truck growing and selling organizations guarantee a sure ready market for all crops grown.

Net results of from $100.00 to $300.00 per acre are common here and you can make more from 1 acre than is usually made from 5 acres growing cotton. We are also in the center of the Pecan and Satsuma orange belt and they grow to a perfection here. If it's a home you want, we want to get acquainted, for we are in position to help you.

Our illustrated booklet, maps, etc., will be mailed upon application, which includes testimonials from people who are farming here now.
